GOLD RUSH

Go glam (as opposed to gaudy) by sticking with warm metallic eye color (try Illamasqua Vintage Metallix Eye Shadow in Embel-ish) and strategically placed sparkle. Makeup master Renee Garnes created this look, beginning with a creamy base to prime the eye area, "otherwise everything would have come right off," she says. Shimmery powder (we like Make Up For Ever Metal Powder in Maize Gold) was applied over metallic shadow, followed by a blingy finish of gold paillettes straight from the local craft store. Garnes used MAC Prep + Prime Fix and an eye shadow brush to secure the shimmer and the winged-out starburst of paillettes.

BEAUTY

TWINKLE TIPS

CND nail stars Lauren Wireman, who's also a contestant on the new Oxygen reality show Nail'd It, and Kris Kiss created the tips for this heavy metal-meets-holiday mani. CND Vinylux Weekly polish in Chiffon Twirl was used for color. The ring and pinkie fingers have a glass-tip shroud and rose gold armor with faux bolts in their design. The middle finger has a dagger that doubles as a vase for the bronze stem of the shimmering flower—it adds dimension to the look. ▷

PARTY MOUTH

Garnes used a variety of loose powder pigments and gloss to produce this 3-D kaleidoscope of color. She started with lip balm for hydration and to help keep the loose powders in place. Next she lined the lips with a shimmery violet crayon (try Sephora Waterproof Lip Liner in Plum). With a flat eye shadow brush, she then dabbed the pigments, separately, onto the mouth (we like MAC Glitter in Gold and its Pigment in Fuchsia Frost and Deep Purple). "I used darker colors around the edges to give the mouth depth, and lighter shimmers in the center and on top," adds Garnes. She finished with a rich, clear gloss for high shine and to seal the look. Keep in mind that a pout this pretty isn't really meant for eating, drinking or kissing. □
