

Spring It On!

THIS SEASON,
GO BARE OR BOLD
WITH A FRESH-
FROM-THE-RUNWAY
MAKEUP LOOK
BY NYKIA D. SPRADLEY

Models overwhelmingly went nude on the spring/summer 2015 catwalks (not in the way you think). Although the season's staple—a clean, natural complexion—dominated, there were a few surprises. At Givenchy, raw met rocker when bare skin was paired with bleached brows and a wide, warrior cat eye. “He wanted the girls to look angry,” makeup genius and lead artist for the show Pat McGrath told style.com about Riccardo Tisci's vision.

BEAUTY

EYE CANDY

Who needs regular eyeliner when you have leather and lipstick? Fendi and Peter Som made use of blue leather strips and neon orange lipstick, respectively, to accent the upper and lower lash lines. We also spotted soft smoky eyes at Chanel and Marissa Webb. We also spotted soft smoky eyes at Chanel and Marissa Webb.

PALETTE CLEANSER

To achieve spring's biggest trend—naked, luminescent skin—stick with warm, golden tones. At Balmain, makeup artist Tom Pecheux perfected the look with foundation, bronzing powder and lip balm for “a gorgeous 1990’s glow.”
